

Andrea Alston-Brundage's daughter has released her first book.

Are My Friends Really My Friends?
Author
Adianna Alston

In “Are My Friends Really My Friends”, A young girl is criticized by her close friends and wonders what she should do. She discovers the importance of self-acceptance and comes to realize everything God makes is beautiful.

Adianna is a 9 year-old Monroe Township student who enjoys reading, swimming, and ice skating. Adianna loves to act, sing and be the center of attention. She is looking forward to being a model, actress, and doctor someday.